DATAWIND POCKETSURFER2 Why's it good? This smartphone rival uses whizzy technology to deliver faster web-surfing speeds over a standard GPRS mobile connection at very low cost. Great for e-mail, train times, checking scores – but no video or sound. Gimme: £180 plus £40 annually (first year free), www.pocketsurfer.co.uk	KODAK EASYSHARE V1253/V1233 Why's it good? Do-it-all 12-megapixel digital cameras that throw in 3x optical zoom, the ability to shoot high-def 720p video at 30 frames-per-second, face recognition, image stabilisation and decently-sized LCD screens. In short, flash little buggers. Gimme: from £160; www.kodak.com	SANYO XACTI VPC-HD1000 Why's it good? The world's smallest and lightest 'full HD' camcorder shoots videos at up to 1080i resolution. Also on board: four-megapixel still shooting, 10x optical zoom and a SDHC card slot – useful since an 8GB card stores 85 mins of full HD shooting. Gimme: £600; www.sanyo.co.uk
